

Million Miles

Nick says – Life is never easy, but sometimes it's good to realise what you've got.

We choose our destinies

Through a long, long string of random binary

Yes or no, I don't know

I'm standing here, but I just can't understand

How you're still with me now

If you were a million miles away

I'd dine out on our memories, 'til kingdom come

If you were a million miles from now

I could look right back on we got ourselves this far

It's pure simplicity

That the more wrong turns, the further we will be

Which way we'll turn, I don't know

We're standing here and discovering paths

That'll shape our destiny

If you were a million miles away

I'd dine out on our memories, 'til kingdom come

If you were a million miles from now

I could look right back on we got ourselves this far
